PRINCE2® is internationally accepted as the leading 'best practice' project management approach. This event provides an overview of PRINCE2®, focusing in particular on the 'Directing a Project' decision-making process, and the Project Board roles and responsibilities.

Who is the course designed for?

This briefing is available as an in-house company event only, and is suitable for decision-makers and senior managers, especially those with potential Project Board responsibilities. It is also suitable for any senior manager wishing to understand the basic principles embodied within the method and how they can benefit a business. The event provides a high-level introduction to the method, with a focus on the organisational and control aspects of the Project Board.

What are the course objectives?

The key objectives of this course are:

- To provide decision-makers and managers with an overall understanding of the benefits and principles that can be found in a structured approach to project management using PRINCE2®.
- To provide decision-makers with an appreciation of both the Principles of PRINCE2® and the key elements of the "Directing a Project" Process.
- To facilitate communication with project managers responsible for using PRINCE2® as the means of planning and controlling projects.
- Enable decision-makers to contribute to projects and management stages by having a basic understanding of the principles of structured project management and PRINCE2® in particular.

What is the course approach?

Introduction To The PRINCE2® Method - An introductory session to set the scene. The PRINCE2® Principles, Processes and Themes will be identified and briefly explained. What PRINCE2® is, and is not, will be discussed. The benefits of introducing PRINCE2® will also be covered.

The Process-Based Approach - The key drivers within PRINCE2® lie in its Processes. Within each Process, the method draws on and refers to both the Principles and the Themes. The PRINCE2® Process Model will be 'walked-through' with special emphasis on the decision making Process 'Directing a Project'.

Management Organisation - An explanation and evaluation of the PRINCE2® Organisation Structure and Role Descriptions. The Customer/Supplier environment and the Project Board roles will be discussed in particular.

Controls Structure - The briefing will focus on the PRINCE2® structure of Controls - particularly Project Initiation, End Stage Assessment, Status Reporting, and Tolerance. The importance of identifying, reviewing and logging the business benefits and project risks will be considered in an appropriate level of detail.
